

A pension with a future

The transition and beyond...

2023–2027 Agenda

VISION

In the transition to a new pension system, the demand for knowledge is increasing sharply. And in the meantime, societal developments in the fields of sustainability, digitization and the labor market continue to evolve. The sector wants to be prepared for these developments.

Netspar is an honest broker, generating new and impartial knowledge, and enabling the results of research (new or existing) to be shared more easily. Towards a new pension system, but also addressing the issues that lie beyond it...

OUR CORE TASKS:

Developing new knowledge

Sharing knowledge

Building a network

KNOWLEDGE AGENDA

The transition to the new pension system

Questions for policymakers, supervisors, administrators, operators and other pension professionals.

Even after the text of the statute has been finalized, many questions will need to be answered through other regulations: risk preferences / next of kin / balanced entry / guarantees / ...

How to deal with the numerous options for interpreting the new contracts: choice of contract / collective investment policy / inflation risk / communication / choice guidance / ...

OUR AMBITIONS

Developing new knowledge – investing in research capacity

- Supporting and challenging the sector through new research, so that better-informed decisions can be made.
- Researchers remain committed to translating new knowledge into practice and vice versa.
- Finding the talent that we need for the future.

Sharing knowledge – scalable where possible, customized where necessary

- So much information is flooding into the sector. Netspar ensures that our partners remain updated and receive the input they need to innovate.
- Maintaining an independent position to continue playing the role of honest broker.

Building a network – strengthening the Netspar network

- The research is relevant for the entire sector: we ensure that a broad range of actors take part.
- Not all sections of the partner benefit from sharing knowledge yet: maximizing reach.
- Bringing in different disciplines to work on the knowledge agenda.
- Providing opportunities for networking.
