

Giving your aging society a future

"Netspar does thorough and policy-relevant research. The added value of Netspar is especially visible in translating the latest scientific insights into concrete problems we face today."

Klaas Knot, president
De Nederlandsche
Bank (DNB)

Pensions, Aging and Retirement
Netspar Track 2017–2018

Giving your aging society a future

Five reasons to follow the Netspar Track:

- Inspired teachers, with hands-on knowledge of the current pension debate.
- Access to a valuable network, including internships and company visits with Netspar partners.
- Netspar certificate with your Master diploma
- Netspar Thesis Awards (€ 3.000)
- Excellent job opportunities

Our aging society raises many questions...

In the Netherlands and other Western countries, the life expectancy of people is increasing. Babies that are born today, are likely to live up to a hundred years. This, of course, has great impact on our society and economy. And many questions are yet to answer. How can everybody enjoy a good pension? What is the impact of the growing need for longterm care on a financially healthy old age? How can we deal with behavioral issues, when people get more freedom in planning and financing their own retirement? What are the solutions for a changing labour market where everybody has to work longer, with less certainty and more flexible contracts?

... Netspar finds the answers!

If you feel challenged to answer these questions – and many more! – Netspar offers a challenging track in four masters at Tilburg University, on an extremely relevant topic in a unique work field. What makes Netspar stand out is our close cooperation with universities world wide, the Dutch government and the pension sector. As a network for knowledge development and knowledge sharing, we are dedicated to promoting a wider understanding of the economic and social implications of aging societies in the Netherlands and in Europe.

Enroll via Blackboard: Netspar Track

More about Netspar, our network and our education: www.netspar.nl